1. Textile Printing

with Katie Smith

Sat 25th & Sun 26th May

In this 2 day course, you will be guided through some simple stencil making, silk screen and block printing techniques. You will carefully mix your own colour pallets, practice pattern repeats, and print simple and effective designs. We will take our cue from mother nature and draw on the rich resource of flora and fauna on Stewart Island. You will leave with a printed cotton tote bag and a swag of your designs on natural fabric.

Katie Smith has been working with fabric in one way or another all her life. From clothes to interiors to conceptual art, she has always been fascinated by the power of fabric to transform places, spaces and people. Katie works in her studio in West Auckland, where she is inspired by the wild mash-up of urban industrial spaces and the forest clad Waitakere ranges. She loves synthesising these disparate influences into printable motifs. Katie relishes in the uniqueness of hand printing and exploring its numerous possibilities. She graduated with an M.A in Textile Art from Goldsmiths University of London, in 1995, and prior to this, she studied textiles at Otago Polytechnic in Dunedin. She likes to keep her work simple, spontaneous and contemporary. She loves sharing her knowledge and passion for textiles and has run numerous print workshops for adults and children.

2. Singing Together for Fun!

with Robyn Bardas

Sat 25th & Sun 26th May

Singing together for fun! A workshop learning songs from around the world for everyone who loves to sing, or used to sing in choir, or just enjoys harmony, or would like to give it a try. It doesn't matter how rusty or experienced your voice is, this will be a relaxing safe environment singing together. A joyful weekend of gently re-finding your voice and learning some beautiful songs to sing in harmony. No experience necessary, just a basic ability to stay in tune!

Robyn Bardas has been the Choir leader of Wanakapella and Hawea Flat Out Singers on and off for the last 8 years. Her classes are fun and expansive, and build up gently through a wonderful repertoire of songs. She is a keen student of acappella (singing without instruments) and has learned from Choir leaders Tony Backhouse, Stephen Taberner, and Claire Stevens. She welcomes men and women of all ages to come and have a go.

Social Wrap up Session and Show and Tell Sun 26th May @ 6:30pm Community Centre

A pot-luck finger food dinner for tutors and participants to get together and share their work, experiences and knowledge. Please bring examples of your work from the course to share.

4. Astrophotography with Les Ladbrook

Sat 25th May

(1 day + evening — weather permitting)

This course is aimed at anyone keen to learn more about how to use their camera to achieve better results with the focus being on DSLR cameras with interchangeable lens, but will be a good grounding for anyone wishing to know what they need to get into Astrophotography, even if they don't have a DSLR now. We will cover basic camera operation, lenses, composition, exposure, processing in the morning, and astrophotography in the afternoon, with a trip out to shoot the night sky (weather permitting)

Les Ladbrook lives in Otago, and is a very enthusiastic photographer, with a passion for the Night Sky and Landscape photography. He says "I have grown up with many cameras through the years, initially joined the North Otago Photographic Society in Oamaru, where I competed in competitions, learned the full darkroom process in the film days. Spent 10 years doing wedding photos in Oamaru I am pretty much self-taught, and continue to study photography on a daily basis. I am currently a member of the Southland Photographic Society and on the committee since 2015. I am passionate about passing on my knowledge to anyone keen to get into photography as a serious hobby." Some of his current work can be viewed online at <https://les-ladbrook.smugmug.com/>

3. Harakeke

with Amber Bridgman

Sat 25th & Sun 26th May

Participants will learn the tikaka and cultural practices around harvesting and preparing the harakeke (flax), and will learn various weaving techniques to produce a two corner kete. You will learn how to make putiputi (flowers), as well as with how to extract the muka fibres from the harakeke. No previous weaving experience required.

The workshop will be fun and interactive and you will get to take home new treasures to share with friends and whanau .

Amber Bridgman 's whakapapa is of Rakiura Maori descent and she is a traditional Maori Weaver and also an award winning fashion designer (KAHUWAI). She lives in Dunedin and teaches harakeke workshops at museums and in schools as well as on the Marae . Maori traditional arts have always been at the foundation of Amber's inspiration throughout her working life and with her designs.
